Beautiful day. Sunbathed this morning. This afternoon we took a taxi and went about 60 kilometers to Cala d'Oro, where there is a small beach. The country between is picturesque, much of it flat plain with mountains as background. Part of this plain is verdant, irrigated with the assistance of numerous attractive windmills. There are great groves of olive, almond and fig trees. The fences are of native stone, and there is an abundance of rock for building purposes.
